Joining us on September 6th, Prof Greg La Blanc will lead an insightful masterclass on “The Future of Work”.

Talent is crucial to any organisation’s survival and performance. Creativity, innovation and overall organisational agility all come from the skills and energy of employees. And yet, managing talent is probably one of the most challenging elements of a Company’s agenda. This is because managing people requires a deep understanding of the forces that impact employees.

The objective of this masterclass is to provide participants with an understanding of the link between leadership and strategic management and the tools to successfully manage and lead talent. It will also help you to improve the way you manage teams within your organisation, in the light of strategic imperatives and across various contexts.

Along with more scientific approach to the employee experience has come a greater appreciation of the different factors that impact productivity, creativity, and collaboration. This includes the organisation of tasks, communications, the physical environment and the psychological and cultural environment.

This masterclass will take a comprehensive view of how to get the most out of your workforce.
